

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A door control device for refrigerators and a refrigerator with the device. The door control device for a refrigerator having a refrigerator door includes a movable body coupled to the refrigerator door, wherein the movable body is arranged to move in opposite directions in accordance with opening and closing actions of the refrigerator door, and a control unit controlling an opposite directional movement of the movable body in a multi-stage manner.